

Imperva Product Announcement:

End-of-Life and End-of-Support Policy for Imperva RASP

Recipients: Customers and Partners

Notice Date: October 31, 2024

Imperva, a Thales Company, would like to update the End-of-Life (EOL) and End-of-Support (EOS) policy for the Runtime Application Self-Protection (RASP) agent. This includes all Imperva RASP agents released under the respective minor versions. Please refer to the table below for RASP versions and their corresponding EOL and EOS dates.

To ensure the best support, customers are advised to update their RASP agents to the latest version and patch available or to the latest LTS version and patch. For details on what is the best fit for your environment, please see the latest RASP System Requirements guide. For any questions or additional information, please contact Imperva customer support.

All RASP support contracts will be applicable only to supported versions of RASP.
